ITALIAN SHOTS HIMSELF IN EAR

Despondent Over Trouble in Organization Said to Have Caused the Act.

Zoffoli Pietro, living on Russell Alley is at the Portsmouth hospital lingering between life and death after attempting to take his life at his home shortly after 12 o'clock this noon.

Pietro, who is employed in one of the shoe shops came home at the dinner hour with his brother-in-law and instead of sitting down to the table told his wife he wanted to lie down for a short while and went to his room on the second floor. His wife and sister both went with him but he insisted that he was not very bad and that they leave him and go down stairs. They had hardly left the room when he arose from the bed, walked to a bureau drawer, took a 32-calibre revolver and shot himself in the right ear. He was rushed to the hospital where his chances for recovery are small owing to the bullet entering the brain.

From what can be learned from his family and others he has been despondent for some time. He is said to be a member of some organization in which something occurred of late and certain members refused to speak to Pietro as a result of the trouble. He is about 38 years of age and married.

TO CONSTRUCT MANY DESTROYERS

Secretary Daniels Will Submit Estimates of $350,000,000 for Construction of
New Crafts

(By Associated Press)
Washington, Aug. 27.—Secretary Daniels of the navy will shortly submit an estimate of $350,000,000 for the construction of the new navy destroyers which will make the American navy the largest and most powerful of any.

The money will be used to expand the existing ship building plants and to build engine plants to furnish adequate facilities as the destroyer building plans will tax the construction capacity to its full limit.

The naval construction plans call for a standardized engine for the destroyers, designed to facilitate the work.

Parts of the engines will be assembled at central points and shipped to the yard where the hulls are being constructed.

Details of the number of destroyers in process of construction and the number contemplated are not given out for military reasons.

New destroyers will be developed so rapidly that by next year it is expected that the supply of trained officers and men will be taxed to man them.

The $350,000,000 is said to be a minimum estimate and a still larger sum may be required to carry out the plans as contemplated.

GERMANY WILL MAKE EFFORT TO OBTAIN EXPORT TRADE

(By Associated Press)

Washington, August 26.—"Whatever may be the outcome of the war, Germany is going to make as active a canvass for the export trade as its resources and financial conditions at the end of the war will allow," is the warning given American business men today by the Department of Commerce.

The aims of Germany to capture the great neutral markets of South and Central America, Spain and near East as well as neighboring countries are disclosed in a report just made available to American business by the bureau of foreign and domestic commerce, written by Chauncey D. Snow, after thorough investigation and study. Mr. Snow was in Germany investigating industrial conditions when the war broke out.

"Writers in the German press," says Mr. Snow "at this time acknowledge that there is bound to be a prejudice against German products in the markets of the countries now hostile to Germany. With an assured commercial hostility in such vast markets, it is obvious that German export trade must make the most of the few remaining neutral markets. In the great neutral markets of South and Central America—in which American exporters are more than ever directly interested—in Spain and in other countries not actively involved in the war, German competition after the war will be especially severe. At the present time, German overseas commerce is reduced to practically nothing. The German exporters however, are endeavoring to keep in touch with their foreign markets. In the neutral countries of Scandinavia, the Netherlands, and Switzerland, Germany has continued to do a considerable export business. Manufacturers in some lines since the outbreak of the war, have paid special attention to these countries and have actually won a larger share of the trade than they had before, because of the difficulties those countries have had in obtaining simple, prompt, and regular shipments by water."

"German exporters are already planning campaigns for extending their business in the near East. Some of the German writers on foreign trade advise making the most of the German opportunities in that region and are pointing out that if sufficient energy were bestowed on the development of Mesopotamia it would become a second Egypt. They are pointing out that the thing for Germany to do is to establish itself so firmly in the countries to the East that in any future contingency Germany would have overland communication with big and flourishing markets and sources of supply for raw materials all the way east to the Persian Gulf and the Red Sea. The German Levant banks are already there. Germany has already taken a hand in the construction of railroads in the Near East, and if the Germans can further irrigate and the growth of industries in that section, Germany's future in world trade will be more secure. The Near East is apparently one of the great fields where German competition will be the keenest."

Among the preparations for the period following the war, the international movements between Germany and Austria-Hungary are most interesting. In the common cause of war the two empires have been brought very close together and it is felt generally that following the war they will remain in the closest of economic—possibly, also, political—relations. Bulgaria and Turkey, likewise, have been brought closer to the two great central powers by the war, and less clearly formulated efforts are being made to align them with Germany and Austria-Hungary when the war stops.

"In looking to the future, the United States has many of the same problems as Germany and the other warring nations. Like the German exporters the American exporters have to face a period of sharp business competition in foreign countries such as, probably, has never been met before. In Germany the individual business man, all the local and great national associations of business men, and the government departments are ever now strenuously occupied with the problems that must be worked out. The American business men's associations and the government departments are alive to the importance of these matters and upon their individual and co-operative efforts through the coming critical years, will depend in large measure the nation's future in international commerce."

"In the German commercial schools at the present time emphasis is more than ever being laid on the higher courses in preparation for foreign trade. At the commercial high school in Berlin, for the winter season of 1916-17, one hundred and fifteen separate courses of instruction were offered. Of special interest are the courses on the general science of the world trade; the political and economic organizations of the world war and their effect upon its operation; German co-operative organization as a result of the war; coal and iron; the economic chemistry of vegetable and animal products; valuation, treatment, and utilization of grain and the establishment of grain elevators; the study of machinery; the commercial geography of France and Italy; economic conditions in Russia, Russian language; courses in French, Italian and Spanish; elementary and advanced Turkish."

"At the same time, that is in 1916, in the midst of the war, the University of Berlin was offering no less than 94 courses of study, especially referred to as 'preparing for commerce and industry.' There were in the curriculum specialized courses in world trade, in commercial geography, and language courses in Danish, Swedish, English, French, Italian, Spanish, Polish, Arabic, Russian and Turkish."

SOAKING THE RICH

Not a thing is to be gained and much is to be lost, by conducting the finances of the war upon the theory of "soaking the rich." Not that the rich should be relieved from an ounce of their full share of the load, but business has got to be maintained and the only way in which it can be maintained, enlarged to meet the requirements of the war and enabled to keep labor fully and profitably employed is to leave as much capital as possible free to find its way into productive tax-paying enterprise. —Manchester Union.

PLEDGES JAPAN TO LOYALTY TO ALLIES' CAUSE

Special Ambassador Ishii Places Wreath on Tomb of Washington.

Washington, August 27.—Viscount Ishii, the special ambassador from Japan placing a wreath of roses and chrysanthemums on the tomb of George Washington at Mount Vernon yesterday claimed the right of Japan to honor Washington's memory and reaffirm her devotion to the allies' cause and the principles for which they wage battle.

The members of the Japanese mission with Secretary and Mrs. Daniels as hosts, sailed down the Potomac on the President's yacht Mayflower. Accompanying them were Ambassador Sato, Secretaries Lansing, Redfield and Baker, Postmaster General Burleson, Speaker Clark, members of the senate and house, high officers of the army navy and marine corps members of the mission of European countries, and many people prominent in diplomatic and official life.

With the red sun of Japan on a white field waving with the stars and stripes above him, the representative of one of the oldest civilizations on earth, on the soil of one of the young, cast, paid a remarkable tribute to the memory of the only man who has alleg been honored, and is honored by the nations warring for democracy. Viscount Ishii said:

"In the name of my gracious sovereign, the emperor of Japan, and representing all the liberty-loving people who own his sway, I stand today in this sacred presence—not to glorify the name of Washington, for that were presumption—but to offer the simple tribute of a people's reverence and love."

"Washington was an American, but America, great as she is, powerful as she is, certain as she is of her splendid destiny, can lay no exclusive claim to this immortal name. Washington is now a citizen of the world; today he belongs to all mankind. And so men come here from the ends of the earth to honor his memory and to reiterate their faith in the principles to which his great life was devoted."

"Japan claims entrance to this holy circle. She yields to none in reverence and respect; nor is there any gulf between the ancient East and the new-born west too deep and too wide from the hearts and the understandings of her people to cross."

It is fitting, then, that men who love liberty and justice better than they love life—that men who know what honor is—should seek this shrine and here, in the presence of these sacred ashes, re-dedicate themselves to the service of humanity."

"It is a fitting place at this time when the world is filled with turmoil and suffering, for comrades in a holy cause to gather and here renew their fealty to a righteous purpose—firm in determination that the struggle must go on until the world is free from menace and aggression."

"Japan is proud to place herself beside her noble allies in this high resolve, and here, in the presence of these deathless ashes, she reaffirms her devotion to the cause and the principles for which they wage battle, fully determined to do her whole part in securing for the world the blessings of liberty, justice and lasting peace."

"As the representative of my people then, I place this wreath upon the tomb of Washington with reverent hands; and in so doing I am 'my proud privilege to again pledge my country to those principles of right and justice which have given immortality to the name of Washington.'"

The mission will go to Arlington today to visit the tomb of Durham White Stevens, the American who was sent to Korea to adjust a dispute between China and Japan and who was killed by a Korean in San Francisco in 1903 and is buried in the national cemetery.

NO JIM CROW TRENCHES

It was officially announced near the end of last week, that colored troops will be sent into the national guard camps with white soldiers, the war department thus reversing its former ruling. It is also decided that colored men accepted in the draft will be sent to camps with others. This is a distinct gain for American democracy and men thus added will make a worthy addition to our fighting forces.—Fall River News.

Peace Officers Needed

(From the Brockton Enterprise)
As the war goes on there is likely to be greater need all the while of competent peace officers and men competent to extinguish dangerous conflagrations. To take first-class police and firemen and put them, green and in the "awkward squad," into the army and then to put either green or aged and retired veterans in their places, weakens both ends of the game for a time at least.

Mr. MacMillan confirmed the previous reports that he did not find Crocker land as was reported by Admiral Peary, but said that Peary's mistake was due to mirages which for four days fooled their party.

Dr. Hovey said that he arrived at Copenhagen from Godhavn, Greenland, in the steamer Hansen Edgar after a journey across frozen seas that took six days.

MARRIED MEN WITH DEPENDENTS ARE EXEMPT

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—At the direct suggestion of President Wilson the Provost Marshal General, Brigadier General Crowder, telegraphed to all Governors that night a supplemental explanation of regulations governing the status of married men under the selective service law. No change in regulation is made, and the purpose of the new statement is to clear up misunderstandings which have arisen in what General Crowder describes as "a few instances."

In a letter to Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, dated by General Crowder, President Wilson states his opinion that the regulation directing local boards "to establish the fact of dependency in addition to the fact of marriage ought not to be arrogated." That leaves the regulations as they are, and the supplementary statement is designed merely to make the application of the rules uniform among all boards.

New Orders for Mobilization.

While the statement regarding married men was in preparation new orders were issued changing entirely the mobilization arrangements previously made. Conscription of traffic and the necessity of making better provision for the reception of the men at the contingents dictated the changes.

Under the new orders 5 per cent of the white men, preferably those with military experience, from each local area, will be started forward to the camps on September 6, instead of 30 per cent. They will go in five daily detachments of equal size and from different companies, organizations, and set us a 25,000 men, into which the remainder of the total quota can be absorbed without confusion as they reach the contingents.

The next 5 per cent of the quota will go forward on September 13, when the second 30 per cent originally was to go. A second 5 per cent will go forward on October 4, instead of the third 30 per cent and the remaining 15 per cent will be called upon as soon thereafter as practicable.

Local boards are directed to disregard order of liability numbers to some extent in selecting the 5 per cent as men of experience such as cooks and one-time soldiers are desired at that time. Warning is given, however, against getting into this levy by reason of his experience any man who otherwise might not have been included in the first increment of the district.

Following is the text of the message sent to the Governors, dealing with the status of married men, prepared at a conference late today between Mr. Baker and General Crowder:—

"A feeling has been expressed that in passing on claims for discharge on the ground of dependency, local boards ought in no case to refuse a discharge to a married man or to the head of a family. The law under which local boards act requires that before such a discharge can be granted dependency, as well as relationship must be established. The matter having been presented to the President the following are his orders thereon:—

"We ought not as far as practicable to raise this new National Army without granting the hardships necessarily entailed when the head of a family is taken, and hope that for the most part those accepted in the first call would be found to be men who had not set assumed such relations.

"The selective service law makes the fact of dependency, rather than the fact of marriage, the basis for exemption, and there are undoubtedly many cases within the age limits fixed by law of men who are married and yet whose accumulations or other economic surroundings are such that no dependency of the wife exists in fact. Finally, the law does not contemplate exemption for this class of men."

"The regulations promulgated on June 30, 1917, should be regarded as controlling in these cases, and the orders issued under that regulation directing exemption boards to establish the fact of dependency in addition to the fact of marriage ought not to be arrogated."

Injustice to Some Registrants.

"The attention of this office has been invited to the fact that, in a few instances, local boards as held for military service men whose families are actually dependent upon them for support on the theory that the wife is able to work and should be put to the necessity of going to work to support herself and children. This situation is addressed in the following opinion of the district board of New York city, in which opinion this office concurs, with the understanding that the phrase 'support available from relative' is supported in part or total previously extended to the applicant himself:—

"We do not concur in the view suggested in some quarters that in case of wife and children actually dependent on applicant's labor for support, and where there are no other means of support, the wife should be put to the necessity of going to work to support herself and children. Some dependency of wife and children on labor of applicant where in his absence they would be left without reasonably adequate support, after duly taking into consideration soldier's wage and support available from relatives, as stated in the rulings of the provost marshal general, is ground of discharge."

"This opinion clearly and adequately expresses the intent of the law in this regard."

False Claims of Dependency.

"Paragraph B, compiled rulings of this office, Number 6, addressed:—A state of affairs where the parents or other relatives of the wife or husband are able, ready and willing adequately to support the wife and children, if any, during the absence of the husband. This ruling was responsive to a class of cases that had been brought to the attention of this office where claims of discharge had been made on the ground of dependency on a husband, who, as a matter of fact, was not dependent upon himself. The ruling directed the attention of local boards to the fact that scrutiny of cases of this kind might disclose that no discharge was advisable."

"It was not intended that paragraph B of the compiled rulings should apply to the case of the head of a family whose family, at the time of his summons and prior thereto, were and had been mainly dependent upon his labor for support."

"Instances in which local boards have been in error in respect of these two classes of cases are rare. It was to be expected that with some 4,500 local boards there would be some uniformity of decision in this regard. To provide against this uniformity section 27 of the regulations provides for the automatic appeal of all dependency cases to the district boards. District boards should scan the decisions of local boards on questions of dependency and wherever it appears that such decisions are illegal (as in the two cases just mentioned or otherwise) or where these decisions seem to be so far ununiform as to result in an unequal operation of the law, the district board should reverse or modify the decision of the local board."

AUTO CRASHES INTO POLE SAILORS INJURED

An automobile owned and driven by Daniel Zamarchi of this city was wrecked and several sailors had a very narrow escape from being killed on the Ocean Boulevard Sunday afternoon.

The machine in which there were several sailors on their way to the beach, was traveling along the state road at Osborne Point shortly before two o'clock, when, without warning, it rounded a curve the rear right wheel collapsed and the machine shot across the road into a telegraph pole.

The sailors with one exception were thrown out and one was knocked unconscious, but while arrangements were being made to take him to the hospital he came to and refused to go, saying he was alright other than a few bruises. The driver escaped with a few bruises and the other sailors were uninjured other than a few minor bruises and a shaking up.

The automobile was badly wrecked, the rear end being smashed and later it was hauled to the repair shop of the Portsmouth Motor Mart.

ENTERTAINED BY LOCAL YACHTSMEN

The members of the Bay Haven Yacht Club of York Beach were the guests on Sunday of the members of the Portsmouth Yacht Club, and it is unnecessary to say that they were well entertained.

There was a clam bake on Pelce Island and it was a work of art, and everything done to make the York yachtsmen remember their trip to this city.

TWO HUSBANDS CLAIM ISABEL

Mrs. Isabel Raynes who claims Dover as her home, was arrested Saturday night by the local police, and is now charged with bigamy. Mrs. Raynes, who is 19 years of age, claims that in 1913 she was married to Lester Raynes in Dover and that later he went to sea on a merchant vessel and she did not hear from him for nine months. Thinking him dead she married Alfred Hewitt, a sailor on the U. S. S. North Carolina.

While he was at sea her first husband returned and located, his wife living on Atkinson street and they received their married life. Saturday Hewitt came on from New York to see his supposed wife and found her living with Raynes. He caused her arrest and at the station she told of her two marriages. She was charged with bigamy and later secured bail until this morning.

TO COMBAT ANIMAL DISEASES

A more intensive fight ever before will be waged by the United States Department of Agriculture on hog cholera and the cattle tick with funds made available by the recently enacted food production bill. Between them, hog cholera and cattle tick fever cause annual losses of approximately $60,000,000. In an effort to stem these losses and so, in effect, to increase meat production, the department will put a greatly enlarged staff of specialists to work in the field within the next few weeks. Tick eradication, which is essential to building up cattle raising in sections of the South now manifested by ticks, will be extended in all affected States. Twenty-five veterinarians will be added to the department's staff to carry on the work against hog cholera throughout the hog-raising sections of the country.

NAVY GETS REPORT ON MARE ISLAND

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Daniels, Saturday made public the report of the special board of inquiry finding that the recent explosion of a powder magazine at the Mare Island Navy Yard was "due to the deliberate act of some person or persons unknown."

The board, however, was unable to form an opinion as to the method employed in the destruction of the magazine, which cost the lives of five persons.

Further the board states that after having carefully considered all testimony and attending circumstances, it is of unanimous opinion that the explosion was not an accidental, but was due to the deliberate act of some person or persons unknown. The board, however, was unable to form an opinion as to the method employed in the destruction of the magazine, which cost the lives of five persons.

sons. If there was any evidence, according to the report, it was destroyed in the explosion.

In making public the results of the investigation, which was the subject of his controversy with the Navy League, the Secretary of the Navy stated that the inquiry was ordered in the regular way and that the report was referred to the Bureau of Ordnance and Navigation and the Judge Advocate General of the Navy for scrutiny.

Inquiry Not Blocked by Labor

Mr. Daniels also made public a telegram from Commander Mark St. C. Ellis, Inspector of Ordnance at Mare Island, denying the imputation made by the Navy League in its statement that the investigation was blocked or delayed by labor interests.

"The public statement," says Commander Ellis, "that investigation was blocked by labor here is not true. Such imputations slander the brave and heroic laboring men who risked their lives to save this plant in successfully fighting the fire. The Board of Investigation was not hampered by the laboring men, but was assisted by every employee here wholeheartedly."

Summary of Report

The memorandum giving the summary of the Board's report submitted to the Secretary of the Navy Saturday follows:—

1. The Navy Department is in receipt of the record of proceedings of a board of investigation convened at the Navy Yard, Mare Island, Cal., to inquire into and report upon the explosion of a black powder magazine at the station.

2. The record contains the testimony of 175 witnesses and has attached to it twenty-seven separate exhibits submitted in connection with the evidence adduced by the Board.

3. A careful reading of the orders creating this board and the record of daily proceedings clearly indicates the absence of any hampering instructions or restrictive direction as to the method of investigation. The Board's inquiry was conducted with the utmost latitude and thoroughness.

No Wires in Building.

4. The Board found that the explosion occurred at 7:55 a. m. July 9, 1917 and was confined to building No. 40, known as the black powder magazine. This building was a modern structure, built especially for black powder storage. There were no electric lines, into the building, no telephones or telephone wires, no windows or other opening, with the exception of the regulation magazine doors. Under the existing rules and regulations access to this building was restricted to comparatively few authorized persons.

5. The only person seen to enter this building on the morning of the explosion was Ordnance man Nell G. Damstedt, a trusted employee of twenty-one years' continuous magazine service. Damstedt, according to the testimony, unlocked and opened the magazine door about thirty seconds previous to the explosion and probably was in the act of entering the building when the explosion occurred. Damstedt was killed.

6. The Board in its findings states that it is of the opinion that Damstedt was in no way implicated in the explosion and that the testimony and attending circumstances do not in any way implicate any assumption of depot employee or any member of the ammunition depot guard.

This advertisement is one of a series designed to effect closer cooperation between the company and its subscribers. There are three parties to a telephone call—the person calling, the person called, and the operator who connects them. The quality of service rendered is determined by the spirit in which all three work together, rather than by the individual effort of any one or two of these three persons. We will gladly send complete sets of the series to those desiring them.

Right or Wrong Number?

The right way to call a telephone number is to consult the telephone directory, get the correct number, and then call for that number, clearly and distinctly, when the operator answers your signal. If you do not ask for the correct number, it necessarily follows you will be connected with a wrong number.

Have you ever noticed how the mind plays queer pranks with numbers in transposing figures? It will readily transpose 1468 into 1648, or 6426 into 6246. If memory only is relied upon, there is always a likelihood of error, and valuable time is lost in correcting such errors.

Therefore the telephone directory should be consulted whenever you wish to talk; if an old memorandum containing a number is used, there may have been a change since it was written or printed.

The wrong way creates annoyance to the person who is called by mistake; the right way saves delay and annoyance in completing your message, and creates a high grade of service for you and for others.

If you cannot find the person wanted listed in the telephone directory, ask for the "Information Operator" at the desired Central office. Her records are complete and up to the minute; she knows every new subscriber's number, every change of location as well as of number, and will start you right with the desired information.

ALBERT S. LAMBERT QUILTS NAVY LEAGUE.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 26.—Albert Dond Lambert, lieutenant in the aviation corps and wealthy St. Louisian, today notified Secretary Daniels that he had resigned as vice president of the Navy League of Missouri. The resignation is the outgrowth of an attack made by the league on Mr. Daniels, which Mr. Lambert did not approve.

Mr. Lambert always has been an ardent supporter of the league. A financial statement of the league recently made public showed that less than $1,000 had been expended for comforts for the seamen and thousands have been spent in salaries.

WORK HAS BEGUN ON 3 SHIP PLANTS TO COST $35,000,000.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 26.—Construction work has been begun on three plants at which fabricated steel ships will be built for the merchant marine of the United States under the supervision of the Shipping Board.

The plants will be located at Chester, Pa., Hog Island, near Philadelphia, Pa., and Newark, N. J., and will be constructed respectively by the Merchants Shipbuilding Company, the American International Company and the Submarine Boat Corporation.

The aggregate cost of the plant which will be the property of the United States, will be $35,000,000.

The awarding of the contracts marks the close of negotiations which were begun during the Goethals-Dennan regime and that have been occupying the attention of the present Board ever since its organization.

The Shipping Board is exerting every effort to provide ships for the transportation of freight for the French and Italian governments, munitions and supplies for which have been accumulating at the seaport terminals because of the shortage of cars.

WILL REGULATE RETAIL PRICES ON COAL

Washington, Aug. 26.—Regulations to govern the operations of coal mines will be issued by Dr. H. A. A. Garfield, the Fuel Administrator, probably next week. Mr. Garfield devoted some time to the situation today and called into conference Francis S. Penbody, chairman of the Coal Committee of the Council of National Defense, and George Otis Smith, chief of the Geological Survey.

The Federal Trade Commission is working on a scale of profits for retail coal dealers, which it will submit to Dr. Garfield. Indications are that retail prices will be fixed to complete the government's control of the coal industry already put into operation with the fixing of mine and wholesale prices. Regulations of the production and distribution of crude oil and its products under the Food Control law was projected tonight. Although the government has no power to fix a scale of prices for oils it can require that the industry operate under a licensing system, and this officials said, probably will be put into effect.

Potatoes Enough for All.

According to figures collected and published by the Department of Agriculture the potato crop this year is to be the greatest in the history of the country, and no better news could come to the people at this time in connection with the food situation. The scarcity and almost prohibitive price of this food staple the past year have put the people in an appreciative frame of mind and potatoes never looked better to them than they do now.

The forecast of this branch of the government service, based on reliable estimates, is that this year's potato crop will aggregate 467,000,000 bushels, as compared with 360,000,000 bushels in 1915 and 285,000,000 in 1916. This is a great increase and it means that this year there will be potatoes enough for everybody at prices that will be reasonable, considering all the conditions. It is hardly to be expected that prices will come down to figures that have prevailed in other years, even with the aid of government control, but potatoes will be within reach of all the people and for this they will be thankful.

The question of the food value of the potato is somewhat perplexing, judged by the outgivings of the food scientists past and present. For years it has been given a very low rating, it being claimed that the potato is composed chiefly of starch and water and that it was of comparatively little value as a body builder. Now potatoes are rated next to breadstuffs and pronounced one of the best substitutes for wheat.

But most people are neither chemists nor scientists and will not waste their time in puzzling over the food value of potatoes. They will continue to use them as they have in the past and will be thankful for the privilege. Whether the potato in itself is a highly valuable food or not it certainly goes well as a mixture with other vegetables and meats, and there is reason to believe that it possesses more real value than has at times been attributed to it. It is to be noticed that it is always relished by a hungry person and that people who eat potatoes freely are apt to be strong and healthy.

For these reasons the country will welcome the prospect of a great potato crop, which in importance is perhaps second only to the wheat crop. The latter this year will not be up to the standard, but with the bins full of potatoes no one will go hungry. Aside from wheat, which is by no means a failure, other crops promise well and the American people are in a position to look forward to the harvest with joy and thanksgiving. War conditions will keep prices above the usual levels for great quantities of food must be sent abroad, but the people of the country will be well fed and in their bills of fare the potato will hold its old-time place of honor.

The New Hampshire farmers are on the right track in taking steps to prevent waste in connection with the great potato crop that will in a few weeks be ready for the harvest. Looking ahead for ways of marketing or storing this valuable crop is strictly in order at this time, and the farmers of the state deserve the utmost credit for the action they are taking.

In Huntley N. Spaulding of Rochester New Hampshire has a food administrator of experience, ability and character. He was selected by Herbert C. Hoover, the national food controller, and appointed by President Wilson, and the duties of his office will be performed to the satisfaction of the state and nation.

The daily doing of the picketers in Washington show that among the mistakes of President Wilson must be included his speedy pardoning of the offending suffragists who were recently lodged in jail. Their conduct indicates that it would have been better if he had left them there.

American laborers in large numbers are going over into Canada to help harvest the crops. This they can do without detriment to the United States, whose crops will be housed before it is necessary to invade the Canadian fields. Difference in climates has its advantages.

Cooks, butchers and bakers are badly wanted in the army and navy. And unless food control meets expectations there will soon come a time when outside of the army and navy there will be a brisk demand for the materials that cooks, butchers and bakers work with.

By new legislation Russia contemplates making divorce much easier than it is now. Reforms of many kinds are in order in Russia, but if the people are wise they will not move too rapidly in this particular direction. There is such a thing as making divorce too easy.

TRANSFERS MADE BY WAR BOARD

District Board Passes on First Exemption Case From This District.

The war board today is passing on the claims of exemption made by non-residents called in the selective war draft, and other business.

Today the following were transferred to the war boards in other cities for further action: Charles O. Frye, Carthage, N. C.; Louis L. Clapp, Beverly, Mass.; Frank A. Hulse, New York; William L. Jones, Cleveland, O.; Otto J. Clapp, St. Louis, Mo.; Allen Seymour, New York.

The first decision rendered from this district to the district board was given today on the claim of William P. Warren Jr., of Plattsburgh. He was discharged by the district board on industrial grounds. By allowing the claim of Warren, the number certified by the board in this district is reduced from 53 to 52.

On Wednesday the board will pass on the claim of 10 more non-resident members. The board is now in possession of the necessary slips for transportation, meal tickets, etc., for the proportional part of the quota, 5 per cent who are to report on Sept. 5.

The next call for examination will consist of 200 men and the same will be issued the last of the present week.

From the Exchanges

A Basis for Peace

(From the Boston Journal)

Pope Benedict declares for indemnities. "In special cases such as Belgium and Serbia," he says, "the basis of a victorious Entente. It is only a step further to include in the 'special cases' indemnity for France, and to interpret 'the occupied departments of France' to include Alsace-Lorraine, either wholly or in part.

No Oath or Treaty Valid.

(From the Congregationalist)

From the American point of view the whole question of peace has primarily nothing to do with questions of geographical distribution. We are making war for the safety of democracy, which has been invaded by the German attacks against our national life and the lives of our citizens. It seems also at the present moment impossible to enter into negotiations with a government like that of Germany which has repudiated all its international obligations. Can Pope Benedict offer us any satisfactory assurance that the German government will keep its own pledged word in the future as it has not in the past? We simply cannot accept the word of Germany—certainly not until it people show some signs of compunction and repentance for the sins which they have committed against good and friendly international neighborhood. The government that made pledges in regard to the safety of our ships at sea merely as a cover for elaborate preparations to destroy those ships has left itself no form of words or oaths which would persuade us of its validity. The point made by Mr. Asquith in the British parliament touches this difficulty. He warns the British people against making a "precarious peace." Any peace which left Germany in full possession of its will to plot and spy and plunder and destroy for its own purposes and at the moment of its own chosen interest would necessarily be a precarious peace, leaving the future of democracy in peril.

The conditions laid down by Pope Benedict seem to involve the grossest inequality and would again inevitably lead to set the whole world by the ears. The power which deliberately planned aggression and which has destroyed or stolen the resources of all the countries which it has occupied, the country which by its preparedness took advantage of its unsuspecting neighbors and has therefore been untouched in its own territories and resources is to be relieved of all responsibility for the restoration of its victims and to be secure in its demands for commercial advantage as well as in its great start in the competitions which are certain to follow peace. There is a gross injustice in this proposition, the acceptance of which would be a surrender of the duty of world citizenship on the part of all the Allied peoples.

This point has been well stated by Dr. W. P. Patterson, professor of divinity in the University of Edinburgh, in a much talk of book, "In the Day of the Ordinal," in which he says:

"Nor is it at all evident that those who hold Christian principles ought to work for the earliest possible peace. The Allies believe themselves to be, not parties to a world enterprise, but sufferers by a criminal enterprise. The motive was predatory, the act was premeditated, the moment was carefully chosen, and the methods subsequently employed have been of the kind which is expected of a private malefactor when he is caught in the toils. It is often advisable to compromise a civil suit, but in a criminal case it is the duty of a good citizen to help bring an offender to justice, so that society may be protected against a repetition of the injury. And the very natural and proper position of the Allies is that they do not propose to compound a felony."

There would be a distinct lowering of the ideals of public justice for the whole world should Germany escape without repentance as well as punishment for its unprovoked aggression and cruelty.

Wants to See the Soldiers.

(From the Gloucester Times)

A number of our exchanges are asking why, if Paris and London can see parades of the American soldiers who are being sent to France for service, our American cities cannot have the same privilege?

The question is at perfectly fair one. Certainly men who are shortly to leave could parade in some of our large cities without giving to the enemy military information which would be of any particular value. Germany gets reports as easily from Paris and London as from New York, and we might surely have here such a degree of publicity as is allowed there. Even though such parades were held two or three weeks in advance of the actual sailing, the purpose would be accomplished.

One of the great troubles with this war from the American standpoint is our inability to properly visualize it. We are beginning to do so as our boys enter the army or navy, but even so we see these men only singly or in small groups. We do not see them in those wholes which affect the imagination and stir the enthusiasm.

Those who saw the parades held in our various cities when the boys returned from the Spanish war well recall the enthusiasm and the emotion that stirred. There is value in such an emotional upheaval. There would be value to the country in such events at the present time. The sight of whole regiments or divisions of our soldiers marching, with their hands and with some artillery, will do more to kindle people's thought than any amount of advertising.

Some cities have been favored by having just such parades. But there have not been enough of them. And many good sized cities have not seen anything more than a single company. This latter has been stirring when those composing it were from the city in question, but how much more of a thrill there would have been if this company had been seen as a part of the organization to which it belonged! We ought all to ask the Government to let us see the boys as often as may be, and certainly before they sail.

Treasonable Activities.

(From the Newburyport News)

In various parts of the country there is being carried on activity which comes perilously near the treason line, if indeed it does not cross this. The country is at war, and all its resources are needed if the war is to be well fought. And yet here is propaganda conducted by pacifists, or by groups which is just as clearly in the German interest as is that which is directly carried on by men of German birth. Whatever may be the motive of the persons conducting these campaigns, the results are clearly stated.

Thus far, the American people have been rather tolerant of this thing. They have thought that somehow it went with freedom of speech. When an outbreak of violence has come, they have protested, but have not interfered with the kind of talk and action which lead directly to such outbreaks. In our easy-going way, we have seemed to feel that all these things are of no account. Perhaps some day there will come to us a lesson showing the folly of our attitude.

That a great many of our people engaged in such activities are of foreign birth is clear. That many of them have never become citizens is also clear. These scoundrels seem to imagine that American freedom exists for the express purpose of allowing them to engage in seditious activities such as would not be possible in their own country. They have no regard for us; why should we have any for them? It would be a good thing to round up all these alien agitators and deport them from the country, preferably to the lands from which they have come.

And for all the rest, the war should not last many months longer without action of some sort being taken. We have enough on our hands in the light without having to deal at the same time with those who would stab us in the back. In this country we seem to have forgotten that there is such a thing as treason. It is time to discover the fact, and to take appropriate action.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Agrees With The Herald

Editor:

A recent item in The Herald referred to the population of Portsmouth and I fully agree with your statement regarding the matter. It is plain to any resident of Portsmouth that the population has not been correctly published for many years. A glance at the directory on any page will satisfy one that this is true. It is about time that this was corrected and Portsmouth given the correct standing in the municipalities of the state. If we are entitled to a change of figures, let us have them. I should think this matter would especially interest the Chamber of Commerce.

HOME-READING COURSE FOR CITIZEN-SOLDIERS

LESSON 12.

Teamwork in the Army.

(Preceding Lessons: 1. Your Post of Honor. 2. Making Good as a Soldier. 3. Nine Qualities of a Soldier. 4. Getting Ready for Camp. 5. First Days in Camp. 6. Cleanliness in Camp. 7. Your Health. 8. Marching and Care of Feet. 9. Your Equipment and Arms. 10. Recreation in Camp. 11. Playing the Game.)

So far in this course we have been taking up some of the problems which each soldier has to face and solve for himself; how to adjust himself as quickly as possible to the routine of camp life; how to keep himself and all his belongings clean in spite of the difficulties in the way; how to look after his own health and comfort; how to take care of arms and equipment; and how to get real enjoyment, as well as benefit, out of Army life.

If the course were to stop just at this point, it might leave in your mind a false impression. For after all, the soldier is not an individual player in the great game of war; he is valuable chiefly as a member of a team. It is a team of enormous size. It is organized in further a complicated way. This team we call the Army.

Your Army life will be more interesting if you know in a general way how the team is organized. This will enable you to see more clearly where you fit in and what is expected of you.

If you have been working for a business concern, you are already familiar with many of the elements of Army organization. You have been in touch with the same things under different names.

Need for Teamwork.

In a factory or store or office—wherever large numbers of people are working together—there is almost always some one in direct charge of each group of workers. This person may be called a foreman in the shop, a chief clerk in an office, a floor walker in a department store, or by any one of a number of other titles; in the Army we call him a corporal or a sergeant.

Following a step, you know that in every large concern there are numerous officers who take charge of various departments of the business such as the superintendent, the traffic manager, the sales manager, the secretary, the vice president, and so on; in the Army we call the men in corresponding positions captains, majors, colonels, and generals. Finally, you have at the top of the business concern a president or a general manager who directs everything; in the Army he is a commanding general.

This general likeness between business organization and Army organization is helpful, but must not be carried too far. There is one vital difference: The average business concern is somewhat easy-going; the responsibility for each piece of work is not always definitely fixed. In the Army everybody, on the other hand, is held to the strictest account. There is very seldom any doubt as to the man to be held responsible for each task.

NAVY NOTES

Takes Over Rifle Range

The rifle range at Wakefield, Mass., will be taken over by the war department.

The range is now in full operation and will be intensively used for the instruction of men on the ships at the navy yard and also for the men of the navy and marine corps at the training stations and instruction camps near Boston, Newport and Portsmouth. A company of 125 men have already arrived from the naval training station of the Great Lakes. The company is composed entirely of students of the University of Michigan and is officered by former professors and instructors at the university.

Lieut. E. A. Harrington of Worcester is in command and Major William C. Harlow, who has been in charge of the matches of the New England Rifle Association at Wakefield for several years, is temporarily assigned to the range. Major Harlow is in charge of the rifle practice in the army.

The department is also constructing ranges at Cape May, Virginia Beach, Charleston, S. C., and other places.

Big Contract for Work

Contracts for construction of three government owned shipyards and for building in them a great fleet of fast steel vessels will be let early next week by the Emergency Fleet Corporation. The yards are to cost $35,000,000 and work on them will start immediately.

The contracts will go to the submarine Boat Corporation for a plant at Newark, N. J.; to the American International Corporation, for a plant at Hog Island, Penn.; and to the Merchants Shipbuilding Company for a plant at Chester, Penn.

Out of the money available the Fleet Corporation will contract for construction of less than 100 ships in government yards, obliging itself to build probably 150 more as soon as the new billion dollar appropriation has been obtained. The total cost of this construction will be between $200,000,000 and $300,000,000. After this, tonnage is built only the appropriation of more

Responsibility Always Fixed.

Within each rank, from major general to private, every man has his individual ranking, depending upon his length of service in the office which he holds. This ranking insures that in every situation somebody always has authority and is responsible for whatever is done. Even if two private soldiers are working together without supervision, the one who has been longer in the service takes charge and the other must obey his orders. This rule applies everywhere.

In civilian life there is time for argument. You may have better ideas than your boss about how a certain thing should be done and possibly may convince him and get his original orders changed. In Army life nothing of this kind can be permitted. The officer in charge always has the full responsibility. Whatever orders he gives must be instantly obeyed. It is far better to take action, even though the thing may not be done in the best possible way, than it is to stand still and debate. Lack of immediate action in the crisis of a battle might mean that the Army would be defeated, thousands of lives lost, and possibly the honor of the country stained.

Think over this difference between Army organization and civilian organization. The longer you think about it, the more clearly you will see why your own interests demand that you should fit into your place in the Army and follow instructions much more strictly than is necessary in civil life.

The Army is governed by military law. This means that soldiers are not brought to trial in civil courts, except for certain serious crimes, but are subject to military courts of inquiry, summary courts, and courts-martial. However, this will never be a question of much importance to the great majority of men in the National Army.

Success in Winning Victories.

Success in winning victories is the object for which the Army exists. In comparison nothing else counts. Every officer and every soldier must be ready to make any sacrifice, big or little, to accomplish this object. An officer may spend years in working out solutions to military problems, only to find in the end that all the credit for what he has done is swallowed up in the general reputation of the Army. If this proves to be the case, he has no cause for complaint. It is the rule of the Army that everything must be done "for the good of the service."

In the same way you may be called upon to carry through some dangerous mission or to perform unpleasant duties. Every such call is an opportunity to show your loyalty to the service and to the Nation. Remember in all these cases that hundreds of thousands of other men in the Army, from top to bottom, like your self are working first and all the time for the success of the team.

It is usually the Army with the strongest team spirit that fights its way through to victory. Try to cultivate that spirit in the National Army, both in yourself and among your comrades.

money will be needed to continue to turn out fabricated vessels at a fast rate.

KERENSKY GIVES WARNING TO ALL TROUBLE MAKERS

Vigorous Speech at Opening of Russia's Great State Council.

Moscow, Aug. 27.—The state council, which promises important results in the national life of Russia, opened at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon in the Grand Opera House with the solemnity and old Russian pomp especially characteristic of Moscow.

Despite the one-day delay proclaimed by the Bolsheviks in protest against the council as a counter-revolutionary expression, the city is quiet. A few ineffectual attempts by the Bolshevik street corner orators to organize demonstrations were summarily suppressed by the crowds, and no serious incidents occurred.

Preparations were taken against disorders of all descriptions and the council threatens to show its might in this respect unknown even in counter-revolutionary days.

Members and invited guests, before being admitted, have their tickets examined by nine different military posts.

The proceedings began with a speech by Premier Kerensky, lasting an hour and a half, pronounced in a nervous, impressive voice, which aroused tremendous applause mainly from that part of the theatre occupied by the democratic organizations and members of the cabinet, but the Duma members and the Moscow municipal deputies also at times participated. Kerensky spoke resolutely, emphasizing the role he had played in recent events and his determination to guide events in the future.

The premier was greeted with wild applause when, early in his speech, speaking of the dangers from the Extreme Left, he declared: "I will be crushed with blood and fire."

Still more applause greeted him when, hinting at a counter-revolutionary military conspiracy, he exclaimed: "Let them be warned who think the time has come when, relying on the bayonet, they can overthrow our revolution."

The audience rose and cheered this expression for five minutes.

Kerensky rebuked the Finlanders and other seceding "Bolsheviks," his words evoking enthusiasm, and there was a menacing note in his voice when he declared that their pretensions threatened the success of the revolution.

The premier's speech indicated that the government expects fighting attacks today by the military, judges and the Moscow deputies, which he denounced in advance.

M. Avskentseff, minister of the interior, and M. Prokopenko, minister of trade and industry, followed M. Kerensky. The minister of the interior described the task of organizing the provinces, the minister of trade and industry told of the cost to Russia of the war.

The first year of the war, said M. Prokopenko, cost Russia 5,200,000,000 rubles; the second year 11,200,000,000 rubles; the third year 12,000,000,000 rubles, while the total expense for 1917 was 16,000,000,000.

Regarding the question of food, he said, the country's position was extremely difficult; there was actual scarcity in several provinces and a famine in Petrograd and Moscow. He was endeavoring to "force" such industries as remained and he considered it necessary to control the profits of manufacturers in order to prevent them from becoming rich at the expense of the populace.

CHARGE ATTACKS ON HOSPITALS

French Avar German Aviator Had Photographs to Aid in Raid.

Paris, August 27.—One of the hospitals behind Verdun on which the German planes dropped incendiary bombs a week ago is at Vadelaincourt. The fire caused by the bombs spread rapidly to the whole building and the glare showed up more plainly than even the large red cross painted on the roof. The aviator threw a second bomb which demolished a pavilion in which three crows of surgeons were performing operations. The surgeons, nurses and wounded were obliged to quit the building.

About the same time a German aviator attacked the hospital at Chateau Mott Malrous. The bomb exploded in a ward filled with wounded men killing one of them.

Ten wounded soldiers were killed on the same evening at Belpu by a German shell.

Proof of premeditation on the part of German authorities in making these attacks is furnished by a photograph down at Dead Man's Hill. The photograph represented the Vadelaincourt found on a German aviator brought hospital, with the Red Cross sign indicated clearly.

Mademoiselle de la Haye has received the cross of the Legion of Honor. Mademoiselle Hariz, Ladue, LeClare and Paque have been decorated with the war cross with the palm.

DOMESTICATING THE FASHIONS.

Washington's the fashion center. For the ladies now. Shall the President be mentor. Telling them just how? Will they kindly heed dictation. From the Capitol, As to length, abbreviation, Colors, stuffs and all.

Slaves so long to the Parisian World renowned as Worth, Will they heed the changed condition. That the war brings forth? Not alone is it in clothing. That the change must come, As they must not learn with loathing, Shoes must alter some.

Just six inches, nothing higher, Will in future do, And each fair prospective buyer. This must keep in view. Style may be more arbitrary. Now that Worth's dethroned, Aught that in the least would vary. May not be condoned.

'Tis of course for conservation Of material. That the women of the nation. Must obey the call, Which requires that they in leather. And in fabrics save, So they'd better get together. Though the change be grave.

Wartime measures have a rudeness. All can recognize; Yet, proportioned to the goodness, We must think them wise; When they benefit the many, Why of course the few, With their grievances, If any, Fall in line must, too.

Bureau of Crop Estimates, With 35,000

Field Volunteers, Will Handle Farm End of Nation-Wide Inventory.

Determining by a country-wide canvass the approximate amount of important farm products on farms of the big into food, is the part the Bureau of United States that is food or convertible Crop Estimates of the United States Department of Agriculture will take in the national food survey authorized by the food production bill recently enacted. Thirty-five thousand picked volunteers from its corps of 150,000 crop correspondents will be asked to take part in the farm survey.

Each of the field representatives, a farmer himself and thoroughly familiar with farm conditions in his community will make a report of food stocks including meat animals and crops on his farm and each of these representatives will be supplied with 10 extra schedules of inquiry which he will distribute among his neighbors, for reports upon their respective farms. From the 355,000 reports thus obtained the total number of farms in the United States will make final estimates for the farms of the country. It is believed that this estimate, judging from the accuracy of other records similarly gathered, will be within a few percent of actual farm food stocks.

The farm survey will begin at once. A second survey about November 1, similarly conducted will cover the fall harvests.

The bureau also will extend its regular crop estimates to crops not reported heretofore and further enlarge its service by special inquiries calculated to gather information arising from extraordinary farm conditions in certain sections.

GOOD-BY DAY FOR NEW ENGLAND NATIONAL GUARD

Thousands Crowd Camps for Last Word With Soldiers Who Leave for France

(By Associated Press)

Boston, Mass., Aug. 26.—This has been goodbye day at the five camps of the 26 divisions, which is made up of the national guardsmen of New England. Adopting the custom of the Canadian government of giving warning when the troops were about to be moved, the department issued notice that Sunday would be a good time for the relatives and families of the soldiers to say goodbye. As a result thousands upon thousands of men, women and children crowded the camps today to say goodbye, for it is generally understood that the men will soon be on their way across the ocean. Special trains were run to all of the camps and the roads everywhere were congested with motors. It was ideal weather and the scene was wonderfully impressive. At Westfield, where the Maine and New Hampshire troops are camped, they were reviewed by Governor Hayes of New Hampshire and Gov. McMillen of Maine.

NAVY DEPARTMENT WANT BIGGER BOATS

The United States Navy Department ordered two motor patrol craft last year. They were intended to serve as models for craft that yachtsmen might care to have followed, to present to the government for service as submarine chasers. Several enthusiasts placed orders for the type of craft suggested and tipped them over, along with their own services, but before long the demand turned toward larger craft.

This was due chiefly to the fact that the liability of Hun submarines carrying on their marauding expeditions along our coast was remote, and the great need was for craft to be used abroad, in the North Sea, in the Channel and other waters, to combat the submarine where their activities were of frequent occurrence.

The percentage of smaller craft now in the possession of Uncle Sam—and by smaller craft is meant practically all of seventy-five feet in length, or less, that are in active coastal patrol service—is comparatively small, and it is doubtful if many of these lesser vessels will ever see any service.

The demand is for larger and speedier vessels, capable of crossing the Atlantic on their own bottoms, and in this respect the type of vessel now sought is entirely different from the ones contemplated before we entered the war.

Found To Be Too Small
The originally suggested 40 and 65-

footers were deemed to be too small when reports of the service of the Russian, Italian and British craft of 65 and 70 feet were received here, and the Navy Department then decided upon 110-footers, and placed contracts for many of them.

Only recently it has been decided that no more 110-footers will be ordered, but that all yards shall do their utmost to turn out craft of the destroyer type. It is probable that these new destroyers will prove to be much better seagoing craft than those already in the service, though possibly they may be somewhat smaller.

However, though the government has decided upon the large steam propelled craft, the motorboat has really come into its own. The gasoline engine, which was practically unknown at the time of the Spanish War, nineteen years ago, has been tried and found able and serviceable, and when this war is over yachting will receive such a boom that the builders of boats, engines and accessories will be hard pressed to supply the demands.

Many far-seeing designers and build are now availing for this. Designs and specifications have been drawn for large vessels which will be laid down as soon as the rush in the shipyards subsides, and the fleet of American built yachts will, in the next few years, be larger than ever before.

MAY DRAFT THOSE NOW REACHING 21

Washington, Aug. 25.—A move to extend the draft law to males who have recently become twenty-one years old was on foot at the War Department today. This action, it appeared, would be presented to Congress by the President. That body would be asked to pass legislation providing for the military registration of all men who have reached their twenty-first year as well as for stopping the liability of all men who have passed their twenty-first birthday since June 5.

Indians who are not citizens will not be called in the draft according to a ruling of the Provost Marshal General today. They are wards of the Government, the ruling states, and as such not subject to military service.

Men who have moved from their place of residence on registration day will not be compelled to pay their transportation back to the place of registration when called to report for mobilization in the new National Army. This ruling was made by Gen. Crowder today in respect to men who have left New York and other cities where they originally registered and have moved such a distance that the cost of transportation would be an unnecessary hardship.

In a telegram sent to State Governors, Gen. Crowder ruled that all men who had requested that their examinations be transferred from the board of their original registration to some other board in the jurisdiction of which they are now living are entitled to request that they be ordered to report to their nearest mobilization camp instead of the camp they would have been assigned to.

Food and refreshments for the men who will be transported by train to cantonments beginning Sept. 5 will be provided by Red Cross chapters throughout the country, under orders issued today by Red Cross headquarters on request of Secretary Baker.

At all points where troop trains stop or transfers are made women will be ready with sandwiches, coffee, saucages, cold beer, buns and pie and special arrangements will be made for sick men.

Secretary Baker has directed that the Red Cross be informed of all troop movements. The Red Cross already has issued to its chapters a model plan for organization of refreshment units.

The War Department, it was learned today, is preparing data and military information to be published by the Mayor's Committee on National Defense for the benefit of the New York recruits. This will be published in book form and distributed among the men upon their departure or sooner if possible, and is intended to instruct them in their general camp duties and the conditions they may expect to find. Gen. Crowder today called on all State governors to inquire into the possibility of procuring the voluntary services of dental surgeons to treat the teeth of men called in the National Army. He pointed out that army regulations allow only one dentist to every thousand men and that the men being called in the draft will require more treatment to bring them up to physical fitness.

The Senate Military Affairs Committee today refused to hold open hearings on a bill to prohibit sending of American soldiers abroad without their consent, introduced by Senator Hardwick. The committee will hear Senator Hardwick on the bill one hour next week, but refused to hear a delegation of Georgians Senator Hardwick wished to have appear.

A preliminary step toward testing the Selective Draft Law in the Supreme Court was made today when the transcript of record was filed in the case by the Government against Charles E. Rutenbergs, Alfred Wagenknecht and Charles Baker of Cleveland, charging them with violating the Draft Law. They were tried and convicted of advising Alphonse J. Schuch not to register.

Counsel for the convicted men are expected to file a brief with the Supreme Court by Oct. 1. It is probable that a motion will be made at that time to advance the case so it can be disposed of immediately.

ITALIANS DRIVING THE AUSTRIANS ON LONG FRONT

(By Associated Press)

With Mount Canto securely in their possession the Italians continue their victorious drive along the Battaglia plateau, despite the vigorous resistance of the Austrians who are everywhere offering the stiffest fighting. Here, as on the Carso front, the Italian attackmen are offering the finest support, not only finding the range for the hundreds of batteries engaged but at times sweeping down and engaging with their machine guns the Austrian infantry. Daily the number of prisoners is mounting and the definite figures are that 600 officers and 23,000 men have been taken, while the store of ammunition food, trucks, machine gun and big guns, taken are enormous. The Italians being able to live on the supplies captured while pursuing the Austrians through the mountains.

On both sides of the Meuse on the Verdun front the French continue to make gains, having advanced over a two mile front to a depth of nearly a mile to Beaumont woods and at Bethincourt the gains have been steady. The Germans have thrown repeated counter attacks forward but all have been repulsed with heavy losses. Further north Field Marshal Haig has been successful in repeated trench raids when prisoners and guns were captured.

Evidently the advance on Riga, the Russian naval station on the Baltic, has ceased as neither the Russian or German official statements mention it. Further south on the Russian-Romanian front around Vladia-Zolnoid the Romanians and Russians are keeping up a strong resistance and have repulsed several German attacks. At Moscow has begun the extraordinary council which may mean so much to the future of Russia. Premier Kerenski was present and in his opening address gave warning that those opposing the present government would be crushed and his remarks were greeted with great demonstration as was his statement that separate peace with Germany was impossible.

U. S. ISSUES CALL FOR HUGE AIR ARMY

Washington, Aug. 25.—The War Department today issued a call for thousands of young men to volunteer for the Aviation Corps. The bureau's action means that Brig. Gen. Squier, Chief of the Signal Corps, and the Air Production Board have completed plans for the construction of the great fleet of machines which the United States will turn out within a year.

Materials of all classes have been located for the construction of the planes. An American engine has been perfected and has stood the test. Standardized European engines have been brought to this country and they will be reproduced by scores. The planes and engines will be manufactured in automobile plants already marked for commandeering.

Arrangements have been made to teach and train the new army of aviators. Everything is ready. All now required is men who have the proper qualifications.

Here is the text of the call issued by Gen. Squier:

"It is desired to obtain applications from all Reserve Corps officers who have finished the special course of instruction at Fort Monroe, Va., or at Fort Sill, Okla., and from enlisted men or civilians who are expert photographers, radio operators or machine gun operators for service in the aviation section. Signal Officers' Reserve Corps; as candidates for commissions as observers from airplanes. The preferable age for all applicants is from twenty-five to thirty-five. A good education, fine physical condition, keen eyesight and ability to judge distances accurately are essential. Previous military experience is very desirable.

It is the intention to assign successful candidates to a school for a period of instruction of two months. This course will cover study of five from airplanes, reconnaissance, photography, radio and bomb dropping. "Candidates who desire to make application for this position should write to the Aero Personnel Division, Chief Signal Officer of the Army, War Department, Washington, who will furnish them the necessary information and blanks for making application to take examination.

"Candidates who complete the course successfully will be commissioned in the Signal Corps and will be eligible to promotion. Twenty-five per cent. additional pay is authorized for all officers who are on duty requiring frequent and regular aerial flights."

TO LIGHTEN LIFE FOR "BOYS IN QUARTERS"

Washington, August 26.—Besides pushing its campaign to raise $1,000,000 for the construction, equipment and operation of soldiers' libraries at the 32 cantonments and camps of the country and also supplying the sailors and the sick and injured with books, the committee on camp libraries of the American Library association has begun the recruiting of authors to help lighten life for the boys in quarters at the front on the sea.

So far, one hundred and twenty-five celebrated writers have been drafted, with a total of about 650 volumes, and the committee has not yet got below the letter G in the alphabetical of authors. The roster starts with W. J. Abbott, who is drawn on for six volumes and reaches A. K. Green, who has 13 books named.

Harvest of the conscriptions is that of Harold Bindness, author of fifteen tales who is down for 28 books, with Sir A. Conan Doyle at 21 and Charles Dickens and Robert W. Chambers at 21 each. And prominent in the list is Mr. Tyrus Raymond Cobb, better known to fame as Ty, who once wrote a book which he called "Busting Ty," that may appeal to the soldiers in both sports and attacks on the enemy.

The list is not based on books merely popular in libraries, for a study was made of books that soldiers are actually fond of reading at present. Book stores were examined to ascertain the titles most called for by men; the section on military tactics was submitted to the war department and approved by the military authorities, and numerous titles were included after consultation with representatives of the National War Work Council of the Young Men's Christian association.

Incidentally, the books in the camp libraries will be distributed from the main library building through the Y. M. C. A. units and the Knights of Columbus buildings acting as branch libraries.

In the list of books to be used for over-seas camps, the committee on camp libraries feel that many, if not all books, on the present war should be omitted. Belief prevails that the soldiers in France have enough of war without the need of books on that subject, but such conditions are not thought to apply in the United States. By request a special list is being compiled for the mess boys and the younger men in the service.

Just to pick a few of the selected books at random, there are "Battle Fields and Victory," and "Naval History of the United States," by J. W. Abbott; "Told in a French Garden," August, 1914," by Mildred Aldrich; "The Gentle Idiot," by John Kendrick Bangs, and a volume by the same author on "Mr. Bonaparte of Corsica," by James Barnes; and "The House on Cherry Street," by Amelia E. Barr, which many of the New York men will find of interest.

"West Point," by C. L. Burnham, sounds as though it might appeal to many of the officers, and "The Sky Pilot," by Ralph Connor, should favor with both the chaplains and the aviators. "Vo Goea Thera?" by Robert W. Chambers, seems an appropriate title, and "Pigs Is Pigs," by Ellis Parker Butler, may be news to veterans at the front who find their sausage and pork pudding made up of sawdust and nails and other strange ingredients.

BIRTHDAY PARTY

Eleanor Romeo Entertaining Twelve of Her Little Friends.

On Saturday Eleanor Romeo, the four year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Romeo of No. 2 McNabb Court, observed her birthday and in honor of the event entertained twelve of her little playmates from 2 to 4 o'clock. The time was pleasantly passed with music and games and the young hostess received many remembrances from her friends, including a wrist watch from her parents.

The little ones were invited to the dining room which was prettily decorated with red and white, where they enjoyed a repast of ice cream, assorted cake, candy, fancy crackers, fruit and fruit punch. A birthday cake adorned with four lighted candles formed the centre piece of the table decorations and was cut and distributed among those present. The occasion was greatly enjoyed and the time to take their departure for home came altogether too soon to please the young people.

ISABELLE VERY MUCH MARRIED

Husbands No. 1 and 2 Meet and Wifey Is in Jail.

According to the evidence given in the municipal court today, Isabelle Raynes of this city, formerly of York, is very much married. Isabelle was arrested on Saturday night on complaint of Husband No. 2, by the name of Heylitt. He came home on a furlough from the navy and to his surprise Isabelle would not let him in the home. He learned that Husband No. 1 was calling and that the old love for him has for some reason evaporated. He lost no time in putting the police wise and Isabelle was removed from the house herself.

Her marriage record was looked up and showed she married here on April 26, 1917, under the name of Lee.

Further record gave her marriage in 1913 to Raynes at Dover. Isabelle, when called into court, stated that she thought Raynes was dead, but she could not explain satisfactorily why she carried the name of Lee.

The court held her in the sum of $200 for the grand jury on a charge of bigamy.
